John Borrer's Map of Boston

A 19th century facsimile of one of the earliest examples of a map of the city of Boston, drawn by navigator and shipbuilder John Bonner around 1722. Bonner designated wharfs, locations and dates of major fires and smallpox outbreaks, and churches. With this 1835 facsimile, the artist added changes to the city's landscape in red, blue, or green ink.

Jonathan and Hannah Woodbury
